

BIG STRIKE IS ON
AT MILWAUKEETANNERS WANT HIGHER WAGES AND QUIT.

Managers of the Plants Claim that they Cannot Pay More at Present and the Big Factories Will Close Indefinitely—A Thousand Men Are Idle.

Milwaukee, May 1.—The employees of the Mattson Manufacturing Company and the Zschetzke & Sons tanneries, struck this morning for higher wages and over one thousand men are idle. Both plants will shut down as the managers say that they cannot pay more at present.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 1.—At an interstate conference of miners and operators, held a year ago, a differential of 9 cents in the price of digging was granted the Hocking Valley and the scales agreed upon were 69 cents for the Pittsburg district and 60 cents for Ohio. This agreement the Pittsburg operators have broken. They declared they would pay no more than the Ohioans who compete with them at the lake markets. This led to the strike now on, which has been waged since March. The test is being made on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio road. Five hundred miners are employed there. The strike made fair progress until the river mines closed down, owing to low water, and the diggers began to take the places of strikers in the railroad pits. To-day 100 men are working on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore Ohio and old men will go into the mines to-morrow. The local officials of the miners have given expression to their discouragement. In this event Patrick McBrady, national secretary of the United Mine Workers, is here working trying to bring about another interstate conference of the operators, the Ohio operators being with him in spirit. But he is not meeting with any success, and it is believed the Ohioans will meet the Pittsburg cut and a strike there will result.

TALK WAGES IN OHIO TO-DAY.

Operators Not Much in Favor of President Penna's Plan.

Columbus, Ohio, May 1.—The advance guard of miners to attend the state scale convention to meet today are here. The operators do not take kindly to the plan outlined by President Penna of the National union by which it is proposed to fight the Pittsburg operators. Mr. Penna's plan is as follows: That the Ohio operators agree to pay their miners 65 cents a ton for digging coal and retain seven cents of that amount (per ton) and pay the same to the miners' officials to go to the support of the Pittsburg miners to keep them out on a strike. The delegates already here take the same view of the situation, but say that many of the delegates will come instructed not to take any step that might lead to a lower price than the present scale of 60 cents. A few will be instructed to demand 70 cents, while some will want to go to the other extreme and accept a big reduction in order to knock the Pittsburg people out at one blow. Those who advocate the 60 cent conditional scale will recommend that the miners contribute seven cents for every ton they dig, to be sent to the Pittsburg miners to sustain their strike. If this plan is not adopted the conference will probably result in a failure to agree. There is hardly a likelihood of a strike in the Ohio field whatever the action of the state convention.

Bellaire, Ohio, May 1.—The mines here and in the Fifth Ohio district have closed, and the miners are insisting on 60 cents per ton before they will return to work. Over 7,000 miners are out of work.

LITTLE TROUBLE IN ILLINOIS.

Most of the Miners Now Working Expect to Continue.

Chicago, May 1.—Reports on the mining situation at different points indicate that May will see little trouble. Some dispatches are as follows:

Spring Valley, Ill., May 2.—The miners of Spring Valley as well as of the district go to work this morning the same as usual at last year's prices and conditions. The maintenance of the present prices for the entire year depends upon the outcome of the miners' strike in Pennsylvania and Ohio, where the operators are attempting to force a reduction below the Columbus scale. In the event of the operators succeeding the Northern Illinois miners agree to submit to a similar one, but under no circumstances are they to accept a larger cut than 9 cents on a ton of screened coal.

Reports from other points in Illinois are summarized as follows:

Alton—No mines in operation.

Bloomington—No trouble, though operators refused to raise wages.

Danville—Miners looking for other occupation. No trouble expected.

Minonk—Little work and miners making the most of their chances. No trouble expected.

Rock Island—Men satisfied.

Springfield—Men all at work. Operators agree privately with employees as to wages. No trouble expected. Wages five to seven cents less than last year.

Streator—All miners busy; wages same as last year unless Ohio cuts, when a reduction not to exceed nine cents is agreed between miners and operators.

Big Strike on the Virginia.

Roanoke, Va., May 1.—Fifteen thousand coal miners employed along the Ohio extension of the Norfolk & Western railroad went out on a strike at noon yesterday. The cause was the notice of a 20 per cent reduction in wages, and it is said the operators are in sympathy with the strikers and made the cuts for the purpose of bringing the men out to force the Norfolk & Western to make terms as to cars, the operators claiming that the cars for mines were not distributed upon an equal basis. It is reported that the strikers will attempt to force the Browning and Southwest men out. If it occurs there will be trouble.

Bluefield, W. Va., May 1.—The strike in the coal fields is practically on. There is no excitement, but the men are determined to resist their being supplanted by non-union men. Only five of the coal mines will be run out of thirty-nine.

A TEMPORARY AGREEMENT.

No Trouble Expected for the Present in Iowa Mines.

Boone, Ia., May 1.—The miners in the Fraser and Milford mines are at work under a temporary arrangement, the old price of last year being paid for the present. At Angus the price has been reduced to 80 cents per ton, and the mines are working full time. Saturday about 200 miners from the Milford and Fraser banks went to Angus to induce the latter miners to strike for the price paid at Milford, $1 per ton, but did not succeed. The men at Milford and Fraser, together with those of Logansport, are obstinately insisting on the old price, which the operators just as positively say they cannot pay. The matter is left in this shape by agreement until July 1, the operators taking out only sufficient coal to fill their contracts, which expire on that date, after which the mines will be closed if an agreement is not reached. It looks as if a deadlock would result. Only thirty-six mines in Southern Iowa are working under the scale rate and will soon quit. They are in the Appanoose district.

Waiting to See What Ohio Does.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 1.—The Indiana bituminous operators and miners agreed last night to adjourn to await a call for another joint meeting by their respective presidents. The purpose is to see what Ohio does. The operators claim that there must be a reduction in the price of mining in this state to meet that expected in Ohio. There will be a suspension of work until after the next joint meeting.

Brazil, Ind., May 1.—The block coal miners have agreed to accept the operators' proposition, which is to pay the men the old scale beginning May 1, unless a reduction is made in competing fields, and in case this is done the men here are to receive a five cent reduction.

Brickmakers Out of Work at Hammond.

Hammond, Ind., May 1.—Twenty-five "belt boys" employed at Purrington's, Robinson's and Moulding's three brick yards at eBrnice and D. V. Purrington's yards at Bernice and D. V. Purrington's on account of being refused an increase of three cents an hour. The pay now is fifteen cents an hour, ten hours' work. The yards shut down, and 350 men are out of work.

FOR THE SILVER CONVENTION.

More Counties in Illinois Elect Their Delegates.

Mascoutah, Ill., May 1.—There is a possibility that St. Clair county, the richest and most populous county in Southern Illinois, if it has representation at the state convention called by the democrats, will send a delegation to Springfield that will vote solidly against any action there in favor of free silver.

Ottawa, Ill., May 1.—The democratic convention of La Salle has been called to meet in Ottawa May 29 to select delegates to the Springfield convention.

Galena, Ill., May 1.—A county convention has been called for May 25 to select delegates to attend the silver convention.

Aledo, Ill., May 1.—The Mercer county democratic convention met yesterday. A resolution to that of Morgan county was adopted, as the silver men were in the majority.

Fairbury, Ill., May 1.—Livingston county democrats will meet Tuesday, May 23, in Pontiac. The delegates from this county can safely be placed in the free silver column.

Harrisburg, Ill., May 1.—The democrats of Saline county met yesterday to appoint delegates to the state convention. The sentiment was for free coinage.

Fulton, Ill., May 1.—The Whiteside county central committee called a convention of the democracy to meet in Morrison, Saturday, May 13, to select delegates to the state convention. The sentiment in favor of free silver is growing in this county.

EVIDENCE IN DURRANT CASE IN

Jealous Husband Saw the Accused and the Williams Girl Together.

San Francisco, Cal., May 1.—The evidence in the preliminary examination of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Marian Williams is all in, and Judge Conlon will deliver his opinion tomorrow morning. Dr. J. S. Barrett, who performed the autopsy on the body of Miss Williams, was cross-examined for hours by the defendant's attorney yesterday. He said Miss Williams died from asphyxiation and hemorrhage, the former caused by rags forced down her throat and the hemorrhage by the severing of the arteries in her wrist. Other wounds on various parts of her body were inflicted after death. C. H. Hill testified a man resembling Durrant met a woman answering Miss Williams' description near Emanuel Church Good Friday night, walked rapidly down the street, and disappeared inside the dark church. He watched them intently because, as he testified, he thought the woman was his wife keeping an appointment with another man. When he went home, however, he found his wife there.

SON OF A GOVERNOR
SHOT AND KILLEDDESPERATE DUEL FOUGHT AT LOUISVILLE, KY.

Fulton Gordon Found Archie Brown in Company With Mrs. Gordon and Killed Them Both—Brown's Revolver Found Empty While Gordon Had Fired Several Shots.

Louisville, Ky., May 1.—At separate undertakings establishments in this city the bodies of perhaps two of the most prominent people in the state of Kentucky. One is that of Archie Brown, son and private secretary to Kentucky's governor; the other that of Mrs. Fulton Gordon, prominent because of her remarkable beauty and excellent family connections. The story is a sad one, and has caused one of the greatest sensations this city or state has ever been called upon to chronicle. A telegram found in Brown's pocket after the tragedy, in which he was urged to come to Louisville at once, is presumably from Mrs. Gordon. Upon receipt of the telegram Mr. Brown came to Louisville and proceeded to the appointed place, which is at No. 1025 Madison street, kept by Lucie B. Smith, where at 12:35 o'clock yesterday the tragedy occurred.

Thirty minutes after the arrival of Brown and Mrs. Gordon a rather tall, dark-haired man knocked at the door of the house and was admitted. This was Fulton Gordon. A few minutes later a commotion was heard above, followed by a succession of pistol shots. Then there was a hurried movement down stairs, as Mrs. Gordon fled from the scene. A few more shots rang out and she fell dead on the porch in the rear yard. Gordon left the house immediately, and a few moments later Brown's corpse was found in the upstairs room. Gordon was arrested on the street. Evidence of a desperate duel was visible in the room where the shooting took place.

Brown had a 38-calibre revolver, which was found empty after the tragedy. Gordon must have had two pistols, as six bullets pierced Brown's body and three that of Mrs. Gordon. Gordon himself was covered with blood, most of which doubtless was the result of contact with his wounded antagonist. The walls are smeared with blood. The dingy carpet on the floor is saturated with gore, and the furniture was badly broken in the fray.

Gordon is in jail and no one is allowed to see him. He is unhurt, but is suffering from nervous prostration. Gordon says he tried to kill himself after shooting Brown and his wife, but the cartridge failed to explode and his hand was nervous. On his way to jail Gordon said to the officer that he had suspected the couple for some time, and about a week ago his suspicions were confirmed.

At 8 o'clock at night the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of justifiable homicide. Gordon's case will be tried this morning.

Gov. Brown, accompanied by Secretary of State Headley, arrived in the city from Frankfort, at 5:30 o'clock. The governor is completely prostrated by the sad affair. Young Brown's body will be taken to Henderson for burial. Mrs. Gordon was Miss Nellie Bush of this city, and her family is one of the best known and most prominent in this state. Her mother was once state librarian at Frankfort, and her grandfather was Judge Zachariah Wheat, chief justice of the court of appeals of Kentucky, and one of the most learned and distinguished of Kentucky jurists.

Frankfort, Ky., May 1.—Gov. John Young Brown received the news of the murder of his son and private secretary, Arch Dixon Brown, by telegram. Gov. Brown was completely overcome by grief, to which he gave expression in intense groans. He broke the sad news to Mrs. Brown and their daughters and left immediately for Louisville. On the same train which carried the governor were the relations of Mrs. Gordon. At night Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Gordon's sister, left on the same train with Mrs. Brown and the governor's daughters for Louisville.

DECLARE FOR SILVER.

Missouri Democrats Adopt a Resolution Which May Cause Confusion.

St. Louis, Mo., May 1.—A special from Jefferson City, Mo., says: Thirty-five of the fifty-eight democratic members of the house of representatives met in caucus at a late hour last night and adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That we, the democratic members of the house of representatives, thirty-eighth general assembly, favor the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1."

The vote on the resolution stood yeas 22, nays 9, not voting 4. An effort was made to have the body adjourn as a caucus and vote as an assembly of individual democrats, but those who had caused the caucus to be assembled voted the proposition down and bound the members to the caucus action. The whole trend of the caucus was to precipitate a discussion which will probably result in a state convention.

Ballot Boxes Are Sacred.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 1.—The state supreme court has rendered an important decision in connection with the Australian ballot law.

At the last November elections in Jackson county and Kansas City gross frauds are said to have been committed. The matter was brought before the grand jury and the latter body called on the recorder of votes to produce the ballot boxes for their inspection. The recorder demurred and the case was finally taken to the supreme court for adjudication. In summing up the court says: "The considerations which induced the states of this union to adopt the secret ballot not only continue to exist, but others have been added. The timid voter today is not only protected from his opulent employer, but from the aggressive spirit of his own fellows and the demagogues of brotherhoods and unions."

J. BULL STILL FIRM
WITH NICARAGUARUMORED OFFERS OF COM-PROMISE UNFOUNDED.

It is Officially Announced in London that There is No Change in England's Attitude On the Question and Uncle Sam Hasn't Interfered—General News By Cable.

London, May 1.—It is said in official circles that England will certainly insist upon and eventually secure payment of the full indemnity from Nicaragua. There seemed to be no use discussing any possible intervention of the United States. Obviously no such possibility was seriously considered here in official circles. In the course of many interviews in the house of commons it was apparent no recession from the demand for indemnity was considered possible.

It is learned from official sources there has been no change in the attitude of Great Britain towards Nicaragua, the British government having no alternative but to insist upon a settlement of its demands and not to listen to any offer of compromise. The United States, it is added, is not intervening in the matter.

NEGOTIATIONS PENDING.

Evacuation of Corinto Demanded Before Indemnity Is Paid.

Managua, Nicaragua, via Galveston, May 1.—No definite information has been given out here as to the attitude of Great Britain on the proposal that her warships be withdrawn from the port of Corinto as a condition precedent to the payment in London fifteen days later by Nicaragua of $77,500 demanded by Great Britain. It is known, however, communications are actively passing between the Managua and Washington governments through Senator Guzman, the Nicaraguan minister, looking to securing Great Britain's assent to the evacuation of Corinto. The actual terms for the bringing about this end have not yet been settled, but according to the information at hand it can be said Nicaragua is willing to settle the trouble by accepting the proposition for a compromise on the lines above set forth.

Cause of the Elbe's Sinking Told.

Lowestoft, Eng., May 1.—The coroner's inquiry into the sinking of the North-German Lloyd steamship Elbe Jan. 30 last was resumed yesterday. Sharp, the steward of the British steamer Crathie, which ran into and sank the Elbe, testified he went on deck at 5 o'clock the morning of the collision and saw on the port side what looked like several lights on fishing boats. Then he went to the galley, where the fire was burning, and found there the mate and the lookout man and they all staid there until the collision occurred.

Calls the Situation Serious.

London, May 1.—The Times publishes a dispatch from Kobe dated April 26, saying there is no mistaking the fact that there is evidence of a serious crisis in the relations between Japan and Russia. But, the correspondent adds, the Japanese press has been forbidden to refer to it, and four newspapers of Tokyo, including the semi-official Nichi Nichi, have been suspended for reporting the fact that a secret council of the ministers was held. The other newspapers in which references to the crisis appeared are defaced.

Such insurance can only be placed, however, when the full amount desired will not be taken by authorized companies. these were the only ones in attendance save a few members of the American colony in London. This was the third marriage of the bride, the duchess, who is well-known in America. Her first husband was William Hamersley, a New York merchant, who at his death left his widow a fortune of several millions. This, by judicious investments, she largely increased. A few years ago she became the wife of the Duke of Marlborough and thus allied herself with one of the oldest peerages in Great Britain.

ASKS AID FOR SETTLERS.

Indians in the Northwest Are Threatening Serious Trouble.

Fargo, N. D., May 1.—United States Marshal Cronan received the following dispatch from Deputy Schindler at St. Johns yesterday: "Between 200 and 300 hostiles at Langan preparing to resist. Citizens are leaving St. Johns through fear. If you come at all bring assistance enough to quiet disturbance and protect settlers." It is stated also that the Indians had burned the houses of settlers who had testified against them, but on running the story down it appears only one case of that kind has occurred.

Pender, Neb., May 1.—Everything is quiet in Pender and at the agency. There will be no developments pending the trip of Sheriff Mullin to the Winnebago Agency for the purpose of making an arrest. Sheriff Mullin says he will die in his boots before he will permit the Indian police to interfere with the arrest and handcuff him again. The sheriff has declined to accept the assistance of a posse.

Chadron, Neb., May 1.—Owing to the fight between Howell Morgan, a clerk at the Pine Ridge Reservation, and Capt. Penney, the agent, the situation among the Indians is such as to make them ripe for a revolt. Unless something is done to stop the present discord this region will see another call for troops.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE.

Civil Service Bill Goes Through the Senate.

Springfield, Ill., May 1.—The Crawford bill extending the civil service system to include the employees of the county board of Cook county passed the senate yesterday by a vote of 37 yeas to 3 nays. The bill will apply to 625 employees, who have heretofore been appointed by the county commissioners. The county commissioners have been fighting the bill ever since it was drafted. Colonel Ela and other leaders of the reform movement are enthusiastic over their success and expect to have no trouble in getting the measure through the house by the last of next week.

The senate adopted the report of the judiciary committee recommending that F. H. Cooper of Chicago be summoned to the bar of the senate for contempt in refusing to answer questions asked by Senator Salomon in his department store investigation. The Chicago drainage trustees' victory was ratified when the senate passed the 1 1/2 per cent tax levy bill by a vote of 45 yeas to no nays. The bill will be sent to the house today and may be voted upon there in time to reach the governor next week.

Senator Dunlap called up the house bill providing for the acceptance by the state of the conveyance of the Lincoln monument and appropriating therefor $25,000. It passed by unanimous vote. Senator Fisher's bill appropriating $200,000 to establish the Illinois Western hospital for the insane was advanced to its third reading. Senator Green's insurance bill was postponed until today, and meanwhile it was referred to the insurance committee with the instructions to make a report on it. Some of the bills were passed and many advanced to third reading.

The house spent the greater part of yesterday in discussing the reports of the committee on statutory revisions on the sections relating to justices of the peace. A motion to knock the enacting clause out of the bill was beaten and the measure was advanced to third reading.

The house held an afternoon session, and from now on every effort will be made to hasten the work of the assembly. The leaders are trying to get through so the legislature can adjourn May 24, three weeks from Friday. The days are getting warm and most of the members are anxious to wind up the session. This means that there will be exciting times from now to be close. Members are intent on advancing their pet bills ahead of others, and the hurly-burly of the expiring days will soon begin.

INCOME-TAX ESTIMATES.

Internal Revenue Commissioner's Guess Was Faulty.

Washington, May 1.—The commissioner of internal revenue now practically admits that all his estimates of the product of the income tax were mere guesswork, and that instead of $20,000,000, which was the original figure, later reduced by 50 per cent, the United States can scarcely realize $10,000,000 from this source. Last week he said that 10 per cent of those liable to the tax had failed to make returns, now he thinks that 25 per cent of such people have failed to comply with the terms of the act, but the commissioner has no means of knowing how near his latest guess is to the truth.

Secretary Carlisle estimated that the month of April would show a comparative parity between receipts and disbursements and yet the figures for the month which closes to-day will demonstrate that there has been a deficit between eight and nine millions.

Two Bold Robbers Run Down.

Chillicothe, Mo., May 1.—Two highway robbers, names unknown, robbed two men twenty miles west of here yesterday of a road cart, two horses, and part of their clothing. Two of the section men who resisted were wounded.

ALEXANDER GRAHAM CALLED BY DEATH.

WELL KNOWN RESIDENT ANSWERS THE LAST CALL.

Demise Occurred At His Home On Milton Avenue this Morning—Sketch of His Life, Written According to An Agreement From the Pen of Judge Bennett.

The announcement of the death of Hon. Alexander Graham, which occurred at his home on Milton avenue this morning caused widespread sorrow in Janesville. Some time ago Mr. Graham and Judge John R. Bennett agreed that the one that survived should write the obituary of the other. Pursuant to this agreement Judge Bennett this morning prepared the following:

Another Old Settler Gone.

Hon. Alexander Graham departed this life this morning, May 1, 1895, at 6 o'clock; and this time we may truly say, that death has taken our first citizen. Although his death was not unexpected, it will nevertheless carry sorrow into many homes besides his own desolate household. Not one of our people was more universally known; and wherever he was known he was deeply respected and greatly honored. He furnished another striking example of the self-made man of which our country furnishes so many illustrious examples. He was born at Utica, New York, on the 6th day of April, 1816, and was therefore, at the time of his death, seventy-nine years, and twenty-four days old, and all of this long life was filled with unselfishness, and crowned with honor. He was descended on his father's side from a distinguished Scotch family, his father's name being Alexander McClintock Graham, and on the mother's side from German ancestry, his mother's name being Dollie Richter, and we have seen fully developed in the life of the son what might have been expected from such ancestors, the energy and thrift of the Scotch, with the learning and mental strength of the German.

During his early childhood his parents removed to Homer, Cortland county, New York, at which place he received a common school and academic education.

His father being a farmer of very limited means, and having a family of thirteen children to provide for and maintain, the subject of this sketch had to depend mainly upon his love of learning and his own unaided resources. In his boyish days he was seldom without a book in his pocket, and oftentimes while following the plow upon his father's farm, when the team was resting he would read a few sentences and then renew his work, reflecting upon what he had read. It was this love of books and study which caused him to become one of the best informed men of the city in which he resided; for you could seldom mention a subject upon which he was not thoroughly informed. When he was a young man he followed teaching about four years, a portion of the time teaching in an academy. He selected this employment at the time, as favoring the cherished purpose of his life—the obtaining a good education, and at this period he occupied a portion of his time in reading law, a practice he has continued through life, not with a view of its practice, but rather to qualify himself for the higher duties of citizenship.

He was married in September 1841, to Abigail M. Keep, a daughter of General Martin Keep, and a sister of Judge M. Keep, a former judge of the First judicial circuit of this state, and she is a lady of high intellectual endowments, though retiring habits, finding her greatest usefulness as well as enjoyments in the blessings which cluster around a well-regulated and pleasant home. The first public office he held was superintendent of schools for the years 1843 and 1844, in the town in which he had lived in New York, and in the year 1845 he was elected supervisor of his town; and in the fall of 1850 he was elected a member of the assembly for the session of 1851, as a whig, where he won the esteem and respect of the many distinguished men of that period in that state, which he ever after retained.

Removing to Wisconsin in 1858, he settled in the city of Janesville, which has since been his home, with the exception of a few years' residence in Iowa, and the time spent in superintending important mining interests in Utah.

In the fall of 1860 he was chosen to represent the city of Janesville in the assembly for the year 1861, in which he became one of the most useful and able members of that body in the early and greatly exciting days of the rebellion. During the entire session the whole country was fearfully agitated by the threatening and belligerent attitude of the southern states, and many and various were the plans suggested to avert the impending storm; and among them the celebrated Virginia Peace Convention, to which all the states were invited to send delegates. Many good men approved of this plan and a resolution for that purpose was introduced into the legislature of this state at the session of 1861. Mr. Graham knowing there was no cause for secession other than the lawful election of Abraham Lincoln, in the way pointed out by the constitution of the United States; and knowing further, that the prime movers for the convention were rabid secessionists, and that the basis upon which they proposed a settlement of the pending difficulties, was such that no northern man could accept without dishonor, opposed the resolution with all his ready resources and commanding abilities, and mainly by his efforts and of Wyman Spooner, of Walworth county, and a few others the resolution failed.

It was at this session that Mr. Graham prepared the bill to aid in the energetic prosecution of the war, and to aid the families of volunteers killed or disabled in the service which became a law. Mr. Graham was a most ardent and energetic supporter of the war to suppress the rebellion and though at the time of the breaking out of the rebellion he was past the age of liability and military duty. He was so greatly interested in the great struggle that he furnished at his own expense a "representative recruit" for which he received the thanks of James B. Fray, brigadier general and provost marshal general of this state, and Captain S. J. M. Putnam provost marshal, Second district of Wisconsin.

In the fall of 1879, Mr. Graham was again elected to the legislature for the session of 1879, and became the chairman of the committee on railroads, and took prominent part in all legislation of this session. He was again chosen to the legislature of this state for the session of 1882, and he added new luster to his already wide reputation by the introduction and advocacy of measures of great public interest, and among them was a bill which he drafted and introduced, A bill entitled "A bill to provide against the evils resulting from the sale of intoxicating drinks" and commonly called the "Graham Liquor Law," because Mr. Graham was its author.

Perhaps no question was ever brought before the legislature that created a profounder interest, and none more fully discussed. More than thirty thousand people had petitioned for and remonstrated against the bill. It was finally passed and became a law. It was not a prohibitory law. It was based upon the principle that every man shall be responsible for the consequences of his own acts, that he who has been the means of producing evil and damage by the sale of intoxicating liquors, while enjoying the benefits resulting from the traffic, shall be held responsible for all resulting damages.

Mr. Graham had always taken a deep interest in the system of public education, and an active part in all that pertains to their growth and prosperity. He was school commissioner in 1859; was elected alderman from the First ward in 1864, and was three times re-elected, serving in this capacity eight years. It is quite impossible in this brief notice, to speak of all public services rendered by this truly able man who has now ended his earthly pilgrimage, as well as his greatly useful and honorable career. It has been said that it is never safe to praise a man until he reaches the end of his earthly life. It is now safe to speak in praise of Alexander Graham. And this can best be done by calling to mind every public and private duty of his life, conscientiously and ably performed. He was exemplary in private life of industrious habits, a kind neighbor and a firm friend. Rising from among the toiling millions, he never ceased to sympathize with and be interested in, all matters that pertained to the education, improvement and elevation of the masses of mankind.

As a debater, before a deliberative body, his language was always clear, concise, direct and forcible. Judged by the best of all tests, the effect upon his hearers, few public speakers wielded a greater influence. He was also a ready, clear, and forcible writer, always presenting his subject in its most favorable light.

If there was a tinge of self-reliance in his character, and if he had great faith in his own judgment, it was born of a life-long dependence upon his own thought, and his own exertions to obtain for himself a competence and an honorable position among his fellow men.

Alexander Graham had many characteristics of which it is a pleasure to speak, but it seems to me that the place of his career, which was most prominent, and which will be longest felt in the community at large, is the splendid citizenship which his life illustrated.

He was a model citizen, and what higher encomium can be pronounced with respect to any man, than to say, "he is a good citizen," for to excel in citizenship, is the highest attainment of a noble ambition. A good citizen is one who renders ready obedience to the law; who avoids as far as honor will permit, contentions with his fellow men; who, while maintaining a careful guardianship of his own rights, respects absolutely those of his neighbors. He takes a lively interest in those public questions which affect the community in which he lives; who exerts his influence intelligently for the righting of every wrong and the amelioration of every calamity. Such a man was Hon. Alexander Graham; and to his life, we can point our young men, as one worthy of full imitation.

He was not called to the highest offices of state or nation. Had he been, he would have earned the title of great, for he never was called to any position in which he failed to bring abilities amply adequate to the performance of every duty required of him. It is not true, that "The evil men do lives after them, while the good is oft interred with their bones." Oh no, rather the converse of this sentiment is true. The good survives and the evil is forgotten. And the good that our departed brother and friend has done shall ever be borne in remembrance.

GEN. RUGER SENT TO WASHINGTON D. C.

THE JANESVILLE SOLDIER IS TRANSFERRED.

He Will Be On Special Duty With the Secretary of War and His Assignment to that Station Is Called a Compliment By the Military Men.

General Thomas H. Ruger has been transferred from Chicago to Washington in the changing around of army officers as the result of recent promotions, he being transferred to do special duty with the secretary of war. General Ruger was surprised when he was informed of the dispatch from Washington that he had been assigned to duty in that city.

"I have had no intimation of any transfer," he said to a Chicago reporter. "I cannot understand it. I have only been in Chicago several months and have just about got the run of the department. If the order was made I would probably not receive any official communication except through the mail, unless the assignment was an urgent one. Not knowing anything about the change I am not in a position to discuss it."

The officers in the headquarters were disposed to offer their congratulations to General Ruger for duty in the capital is considered the greatest blessing that can befall an army officer and are disposed to think that the much-talked-of division of the department of the Atlantic has been decided upon and that General Ruger was assigned to the new department of the south, with headquarters at Washington.

General Ruger's advancement is plainly remembered by Janesville people. He was created a brigadier general in March, 1886, and shortly after assigned to the department of the Dakota, relieving General Terry, who was transferred to Chicago. In 1891 on the retirement of General Gibbons, General Ruger was transferred to the department of California, and in January last was transferred to Chicago. Several weeks after his transfer he was promoted to a major generalship by President Cleveland.

DEATH OF WILLIAM G. EASTERLY
County Pioneer Called to the Final Rest at Moravia, N. Y.

William G. Easterly, aged seventy-four years, died Tuesday morning, April 9, at his home on North Main street, Moravia, N. Y. Mr. Easterly was born in Scipio, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1820. He married Elizabeth Robinson in 1841, and three years later he removed to the town of La Prairie, near Janesville, where he resided for nearly forty years. He shared the toil and deprivation of frontier life, improved a large farm and owned property at different periods in other parts of the state. He was a kind neighbor, always ready to help those in distress and need and many will remember kindnesses from his generous heart and hospitality.

He joined the church at the age of eighteen and was a member of the Methodist church to the end of his life. When health failed in 1885 he rented his farm and removed to the scenes of his early boyhood. He visited his farm every two years. The last time he was able to journey west was during the World's Fair, when he went as far as Minneapolis, visiting friends and relatives in this state, Chicago and Marshall, Mich., but said to them all "this is my last visit."

In September '94 he suffered from a stroke of paralysis which was followed by a final stroke in February last rendering him helpless. His good wife was permitted to care for him during the months of suffering and to be near him in the last moments. Beside the wife among the near relatives are Mrs. H. J. Francisco, Ceresco, Mich., and two brothers, Ozem M. Easterly, Marshall, Mich., and John M. Easterly, Auburn, N. Y. The brothers were present at the funeral April 12, Rev. C. J. Beach officiating. The interment was made at Indian Mound cemetery.

The Meaning Of It.

We are pushing sales at your own price on anything we own, simply to reduce our indebtedness. Price cuts no figure. We owe some more than we care to owe and we have loads of property, so we are holding a liquidation sale, and you who do business with us now reap the benefit.

If you want a home or a homestead, if you want to buy on speculation, our office is the place, and you will make a mistake if you invest a shilling elsewhere.

One of our customers said to us yesterday: "The little fellows have been after me thicker than flies, but you showed me more bargains in an hour than they all put together have shown after days of time spent." We own most of our property and make prices no one else can touch. Remember we are not after profit now. We want customers and sales.

Yours very truly,

COURT HOUSE PLAN NOT YET FINISHED.

SEVERAL SCHEMES FOR THE NEW ANNEX.

Building Committee With Architect Kemp Look Over the Rooms to See What Is Best to Do—Clerk of the Court Needs More Vault Room Too—Some Ideas Advanced.

The building committee of the county board of supervisors has not fully decided just what plan they will recommend for supplying increased vault room at the court house for the accommodation of the county judge's office. Yesterday members of the committee with Architect Kemp were making a thorough inspection of the building for the purpose of arriving at some plan by which additional room may be made without material alterations in the building. The idea of building an annex at the northeast corner of the building will probably be abandoned. After concluding the examination yesterday, Chairman Kimball was seen, and informed a Gazette reporter that two other plans had been suggested.

"We find that more fire proof vault room must be provided for the accommodation of the papers in the office of the circuit court clerk," said Mr. Kimball. "Two plans have been suggested," he continued. "One is to build an addition on the north end of the building the same width as the present projection under the tower. This can be extended out say twenty feet, and carried up but one story and finished in keeping with the building. This would give ample room for both the county judge and the court clerk for some time to come. Another plan is to tear up the floors of both the county judge's and court clerk's offices, and making the two large rooms below fire proof, the one formerly occupied by the municipal court, and the one used by the agricultural society. These two rooms could be easily transferred into fire-proof vaults, and would provide room for half a century to come. However, there is a serious objection to this last plan. It would necessitate the climbing of stairs every time a paper is required, which would be many times every day. I think the plan of building on the north end will be found the best and most likely to be adopted. However, the whole matter will be laid before the board at their next meeting, and it is somewhat early to say just what action will be taken."

BABY CONTEST OPEN BALLOTS IN DEMAND

THE CONTEST.

Five Shares of Stock in the Rock County Building Loan and Savings Association Will be Given the Winner June 1—Value at Maturity Is $500 and It Is Non Assessable.

The polls for The Gazette contest for the babies is now open and the ballot will be found at the close of this article and will run until June 1, when the contest will close. Much interest is centered in The Gazette's offer to present the baby who gets the highest number of votes with $500 worth of stock in the Rock County Building Loan and Savings Association. It is a prize worth getting, for naturally it will be worth just half a thousand dollars. That will be a nice nest egg if kept at interest after maturity until the child becomes old enough to want to use it. It will buy an education.

It will buy a building lot. It will buy a piano and the lessons necessary to play upon it. It is more than many people are able to earn in a life time.

Of course all the mothers and fathers want it for their babe. How to get it is told below:

The polls opened this morning and will remain open until June 1. The baby that receives the most ballots in that time will receive a certificate calling for these five shares of stock. There are no dues to be paid, no assessments to be met, no installments to provide for. The stock stands for $500 in cash and on its maturity, which will be in nine and one-third years, the money will be ready. The prize is a handsome one—it is well worth winning and the conditions of the ballot are as follows:

From March 1 until June 1, a coupon will be printed in each issue of The Gazette.

Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote as often as they buy a copy of The Janesville Gazette containing the above ballot.

On the ballot cut (trimming on the dotted line.) Write in the name of your candidate and enclose same in an envelope addressed to Ballot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Only one person can be voted for on one ballot.

The baby who receives the largest number of votes will receive five shares of stock in the Rock County Building & Savings Association, cash value, $500 at maturity.

The contest will close June 1 at 6 p. m., and the stock will be delivered as soon as the count of votes is completed.

Any non-subscriber who will subscribe for The Gazette and pay in advance will be entitled to the following number of ballots:

New subscriber paid in advance one month, 100 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance two months, 250 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance six months, 600 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance one year, 1,000 votes.

Each new subscriber who pays in advance and sends the number of votes specified is also entitled, of course, to cut coupons from the paper from day to day and vote in the regular manner.

No person will be allowed extra votes for stopping his paper and having it sent to another name at the same address.

In every instance they must be bona fide new subscribers.

No person will be allowed to stop his paper on Monday and start it again Tuesday and obtain the premium of $500.

No votes can be transferred from one candidate to another after being registered in this office.

Candidates must not be more than three years of age March 1, 1895, and must live in Janesville.

THE BALLOT.

The Publishers of "The Janesville Gazette" will give 5 Shares of stock in the Rock County Building, Loan & Savings Association to the Baby who receives the largest number of ballots.

Changed His Mind.
"I notice," said a clergyman's wife to her husband, "that it is no longer fashionable for the minister to kiss the bride at the wedding ceremony."
"Yes," sadly responded the good man, "many of the pleasant features connected with the wedding ceremony have been discarded, and—"
"What's that?" demanded his wife, ominously.
"I mean—I mean," he stammered, "that the senseless custom of kissing the bride should have been abolished long ago."—Tammany Times.

gathering for the season's wants at prices so small that you double the pleasures of spending. The early comers find early shoppers before them. There's never been such a volume of goods handled in any spring, and still, far and wide, trade is counted dull. Goods don't move in the channels planned for them; they come here for distribution and the saving is yours.

REVIVAL OF BUSINESS.

It is gratifying to know, that in spite of all democracy has done to blight and damage the industries of the country that business is slowly but surely improving. The wonderful resources of the country and the recuperative energy of the people is being tested by an experience unprecedented in the history of the nation. As the result of this experience, which has meant so much in the way of a financial loss, and suffering through enforced idleness, circumstances are being adjusted to conditions and throughout the manufacturing districts, especially in New England, the busy hum of machinery is heard as glad music, in many factories that have long been idle. During these months of stagnation and business depression inventive genius has not been idle, and every nerve has been strained in an effort to sustain American wages, and at the same time meet foreign competition in the home market.

At Fall River and other textile manufacturing points, wages have been restored and the speed and capacity of machinery so improved and increased that the mills are doing a thriving business, while labor is contented and happy. The shoe trade is rushed with orders and the outlook for the year is becoming brighter every day.

It was demonstrated recently in England that American shoes are made for a little less than half the cost of labor on account of improved machinery. It is not at all strange that business should improve after two years of stagnation. When the panic struck the country in 1893 every avenue of business was crowded. The market was glutted with merchandise of every description. The unloading process has been going on ever since, and some of the methods have been severe. Thousands of manufacturers and merchants have sacrificed the accumulations of a lifetime. Receivers and bankrupt stocks have been the rule and not the exception. The result has been that the country has been flooded, not with cheap goods, but with sacrificed goods bought at the purchasers' own price.

The weeding out process has gone steadily forward and the "survival of the fittest" has been fully realized. Production has been curtailed, the surplus has vanished and the country today contains less manufactured goods than at any time in its history, compared with the population.

The natural demand, leaving out all speculative features, will keep our mills and factories employed for many months, to supply what is left of the home demand.

Democracy looks on benignantly and says "I told you so," but some of the poor fellows whose stomachs have been growing to their backs for the past eighteen months, will vote another ticket when they have an opportunity.

A QUESTION FOR "COIN"

"If the decline in silver has caused the decline in wheat, what caused the rise of corn, pork, cotton and oats? If silver had anything to do with one it had it to do with the others. Cotton, wheat and pork are widely separated products and controlled by the same dealers. They grow in different sections and find different markets. One has fallen in price and the others have risen. What relation has silver with the one that it has not with the others? Would these products obtain any higher price in their markets abroad if we were on a fifty cent standard? Could we be any richer by calling that price two dollars instead of one?"—Milwaukee Journal.

When Colonel Coin answers those questions, and answered them honestly, his childish book won't have a leg left to stand on.

In the death of Alexander Graham Janesville loses one of her most enterprising citizens. A man of strong convictions, yet genial and courteous, he gathered about him a host of friends who appreciated his many sterling qualities of mind and heart. His name will be recorded in the history of the city that he loved and the state that he honored, as a man whose integrity was spotless, and whose sense of justice and moral rectitude was keen and uncompromising.

THE TOWN TALK OF A DAY.

The citizens of Fond du Lac did not like to see the Venne stock of $12,000 worth of shoes leave there, as they knew it was the best ever put on a shelf, but we didn't listen to their entreaties, this is our home and we wanted to give the good people of Janesville an opportunity to get some of the plums. Now they are here, and our own stock of $18,000 added, the people appreciate it all, and crowd our store daily, 40 cents saved on every dollar. Becker & Woodruff.

Don't forget the Union May party to be given by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen on May 1, in the Light Infantry Armory. Free carriages will be furnished to those wishing supper, which will be served at McDonald's opera house restaurant.

EDITH TODD: "They call the queen's son a prince; don't you wish you were a prince, Tommy?" Tommy Todd: "I will be when I get big, 'cause papa says an American citizen can be a prince if he rides in an Albemarle Stanhope. Wisconsin Carriage Top Co."

A LONE hand, this, that we are playing in the shoe trade. We really have no competition; other stocks may be cheap, but our stock is so dirty cheap that they are 40 miles behind us. Brown Bros. & Lincoln.

Go with me to clothe you as becomes you.—Shakespeare. Is it possible that that the great poet looked so far into the future? He evidently had in mind Goodman's clothing that is doing so much to clothe the town becomingly.

APRIL just ended proved to be a stemwinder for us; $5 shoes for $2.50 and $3 through the entire North stock, was too great a temptation to shoe buyers, and we landed a host of them. Brown Bros. & Lincoln.

Protect The Sight.

Not unlike other useful members of the body, the eyes are often objects of serious abuse. In some parts of Europe parents not infrequently have applied hot irons to the eyes of their children in order to make of them pitiable objects of charity. Send them out to beg that philanthropic persons may drop a few pennies into their cups. Such are some of the atrocious crimes of the lower classes, but to what state of depravity has a man descended, who, either from shiftlessness or cowardice performs, or causes to be performed, like mutilations upon his own body, that the arduous and dangerous tasks of military duty may be escaped. Whenever the eyes commence to pain or you have to strain them to read, you are abusing them. W. F. Hayes, the expert optician at F. C. Cook & Co's., is the person to consult.

A TRUE STORY.

Last month I cleared, after paying all expenses, $235.28; the month before $182.80 and have at the same time attended to my regular business. I believe anyone, anywhere, can do as well, as I have not a particularly good location and not much experience. When you have an article that every family wants, it is very easy selling it. It seems strange that a good, cheap dish washer was never before placed on the market. With the Perfection, which sells for $5 you can wash and dry the dishes for a family in two minutes, without putting the hands in water. As so many people see the washer work, they want one, and that is why so much money can be made so quickly. For full particulars address The Perfection Mfg. Co., Station O, Oakwood, Ill. I feel convinced that any lady or gentleman, in any location can make $5 to $10 a day, as every family will very soon have a dish washer. Try it and publish your experience for the benefit of others. ALICE O.

Anti-Toxine Used Without Success at E. J. Bennett's Home.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. Bennett, 10 Park avenue, was transformed into a home of sorrow at 1 o'clock this afternoon, when death claimed their little seven year old son, Freddie, as a victim. Little Freddie had been suffering several days with diphtheria, but not until last evening was he thought to be dangerous. He grew rapidly worse during the night and this morning, death finally relieving him of all suffering at 1 o'clock, the use of anti-toxine having proved unavailing. Owing to the nature of the disease, the burial will probably take place this evening, in a private way. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of many friends in their sad affliction.

LOOMS AND HELP ARE BOTH IDLE

Cotton Mill Employees Walked Out
This Morning.

DEMAND THE RESTORATION OF OLD WAGE SCALE.

Two Years Ago the Wages Were Cut Ten Per Cent. With the Agreement the Strikers Claim That the Pay Should Be Restored When Business Would Warrant It—Shops May Close Up Indefinitely as the Result.

All the employees of the Janesville cotton mills struck for a 10 per cent advance in wages this morning, and all quit work, their demands not being acceded to. In consequence of this between two and three hundred hands are now idle and the cotton mills are at a standstill.

The employees claim that they submitted to a 10 per cent cut about a year and a half ago, it being agreed that the cut would be restored as soon as the trade would permit. They now claim that they have been watching the cotton trade, as well as the rate of wages paid in similar mills located in the east, and insist that business in the cotton trade has been so far revived that over one hundred mills in New England have already advanced the pay of their employees, and that they can see no reason why the Janesville mills cannot also restore the scale of wages of a year and a half ago.

To substantiate that claim one of them showed a clipping from the "Textile Manufacturers' Labor Weekly" of April 20, published at Woonsocket, R. I., which says under the head "The Mercantile Trade":

"The improved tone noted in business circles last week continues to grow, and merchants in all lines are taking a more cheerful view of the situation. Factories that have been idle for several years are starting up all over the country, and paying better wages. There is a light stock of manufactured goods in all lines, and no surplus is to be found anywhere. Prices are on the upward path, and while the advances are not severe they are very encouraging to manufacturers. Sales of dry goods are liberal for the season and the tone of the market for most lines is decidedly stronger. Prices on nearly all the leading makes of cottons are 1 cent higher, making the advance 10 from the bottom of the recent depression. There is a steady feeling on woollens, with a fair call. Sales of fall goods start in well and give jobbers hopes of an increased business in the future. The most important feature was the large sale of pig iron, one house placing orders for 8,000 tons, being the largest week's business in some time. One of the orders was for 25,000 tons at full prices—$10.50 for No. 1, and $10 and $10.25 for No. 2 foundry. Sales of bar iron were up to the recent average and the market holds strong. Light hardware sold more readily and the prices were well maintained. Groceries were traded in freely and the market was without important change."

Dr. Henry Palmer, president of the Janesville Cotton Company, was seen this morning but was not prepared to make any statement for publication, although he intimated that the strike might be the cause of shutting down the factories for an indefinite time.

Mr. Heller, the general manager of the company, could not be found, but he is reported as saying that the company cannot pay the 10 per cent advance in wages at this time, and if the strikers insist, the mills will be compelled to shut down indefinitely.

Amid surroundings the most pleasant and under circumstances the most auspicious, Charles I. Young and Miss Margaret Kemmett, were united in the bond that lasts until severed by the All High authority that makes the obligation binding, at the residence of Dean McGinnity of St. Patrick's church last evening. Rev. Father Collins performing the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Lilly Buob and John Kemmett were bridesmaid and groomsmen, and following the ceremony a reception was given and a wedding feast served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kemmett, 252 South River street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are well known in Janesville where they have resided all their lives. The bride is a young woman whose unassuming and thoroughly lady like manners inspire the respect of all and hold the friendship that springs from the first acquaintance. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Young, and is a machinist in the employ of the New Doty Company. Skilled in his handicraft, honest, manly and energetic, his worth has won him many friends who will wish him and his bride all happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Young will at once begin housekeeping in a cozy home on Peace Court, in which are arranged many gifts that reflect the esteem in which they are held by their associates.

VERY FEW HEARD A FINE CONCERT
Only Two Dozen People At The Myers Grand Last Night.

But about two dozen people turned out last night to listen to the really fine concert given by the Torbett Company assisted by the famous Luttman Sextette from Stockholm, Sweden. That a concert of this high grade should be so shabbily attended does not speak well for Janesville's music lovers, as Miss Torbett, the violinist, Mr. Dowey the pianist are celebrated musicians while the Luttman Sextette is famous, not only in American but in the world at large.

They have sung in nearly every civilized country on the globe and a better lot of male voices were never gotten together. Leaving every other number out of the program, N. Lowenmark's rendition of Dudley Buck's arrangement for Annie Laurie is fully worth the price of admission, while the balance of the program is as finished and artistic as could be desired.

Manager Stoddard is to be complimented for securing so high grade a concert and it is not at all to Janesville's credit that the audience was so beggarly.

ALL HIDES ARE HIGH IN PRICE

The Raise of Beef Rates Has Its Effect at Last.

The high price of meat now has its effect on hides and local dealers have been informed of the raise. Chicago and Milwaukee dealers complain that the scarcity has been noticed more lately than anytime in several years. A number of reasons are given for this change among them being: the high price of beef, while others claim that the hides on the market are being held by speculators in the hopes of an advance in prices. Nevertheless men are idle in different parts of the country on account of the closing up of the tanneries and hides which were worth but a short time ago two and one half and three cents a pound, are now quoted at from five to six cents and calves hides are at present selling at eight cents, while pelts are the lowest ever known, selling from ten to seventy-five cents each.

An Interchange of Captains Will Be Arranged For.

A number of National Guard officers in different parts of the state think that an interchange of captains would be a great benefit to the different companies, for the reason that it would bring before each company the different ideas of different officers. They will start from Beloit and tramp to this city in heavy marching order and while here they will be quartered at the armory, and entertained by the members of the Light Infantry.

HENROTH GETS BAIL AND IS LET LOOSE

ALLEGED RECEIVER OF STOLEN GOODS FREED.

Bonds Signed By S. B. Smith—Acted Queerly At the Jail—J. P. Worthington Fined For Shooting In the City Limits The Result of Yesterday's Fight.

Edward C. Henroth, who has been confined in the county jail for the last six or seven weeks awaiting trial on the charge of receiving stolen goods, being implicated in the Northwestern car at Shopiere, was admitted to bail this morning, and is now apparently a free man. Henroth was brought into the municipal court this morning, his trial being again postponed until May 29. Judge Phelps fixed his bail at $1,000, which he gave, Stanley B. Smith signing the bond. Henroth also gave a $500 bond to appear as a witness against the Johnson brothers of Beloit, on May 27.

"I am glad Henroth is out on bail," said Sheriff Appleby this morning. "He is a queer fellow in the jail. He is up all night walking around the jail, and sleeps day times and imagines that some one is going to break into the jail and do him harm. When Franklyn, Crowley and Flynn were in the lower part of the jail they worried the life almost out of Henroth by yelling up through the ventilator so Henroth could hear them, and this worried him almost out of his wits. He will undoubtedly feel better, now he is out of jail."

J. P. Worthington Fined.

J. P. Worthington pleaded guilty this afternoon to the charge of discharging firearms in the city limits, contrary to provisions of city ordinance, whereupon Judge Phelps sentenced him to pay a fine of $10 and costs. The shot was fired yesterday afternoon during a fight with Len Yoman, which occurred in the alley back of Worthington's saloon. Yoman, bolted through Hart's saloon, causing some excitement on North Main street.

Mrs. Philip Green complained to the police yesterday and again last night, that her husband, Philip, had mistreated her. The couple reside on North Bluff street and Chief Acheson straightened things out. Another complaint came to the chief last evening, and he made a second call to the Green home, but decided that he would give Green one more trial. If he don't take advantage of this chance, he'll be likely to change his residence.

Surely the daughters of Janesville, would not be guilty of such an act, even if their fathers were to put the titles to houses in their names.

Look at our houses, take the title to yourself, and we would suggest that as an investment or saving fund for wife, daughters, or any one, we think our plan of selling houses affords an excellent chance of earning interest on the money you have invested, together with the Saving Fund feature of being able to pay something on account from time to time.

Mistress of the Foundry.

By EARL JOSLYN.

[Copyright, 1894, by the Author.]

CHAPTER II.

The strikes of that autumn will always be remembered by business men for their bitterness and long continuance. The brotherhoods of brass and iron workers were finally drawn into the strife. One evening shortly before 5 o'clock Mrs. Sterns saw six sooty faced fellows enter the office.

"We can't work any more, missis," said Luke, who had been appointed spokesman.

"Why, Luke, what is the trouble?" inquired Mrs. Sterns, considerably alarmed.

"Nothing that you can help, missis," said Luke. "Fact of the case is the union has ordered us to quit, and we must stop work tonight at 5. We were ordered out last Saturday, but Don said we must help you out by finishing up the big order for them bibbs, so we got leave to stick by until now. I'm dumb-ed sorry to serve you so, especially when your man's gone, but we can't help it. We'll come back, ivery lad of us, as soon as the union let's us."

Dick Flanagan thrust forward his long grimy arm and bent down toward the desk his dark, alert face. "We're smokers, missis," he said excitedly, "but don't ye be afraid. We'll never smoke the likes of ye out, though we will come as lives near ye. If ye ever made a strong arm, there 'tis for ye."

"Shut up, Dick Flanagan," interrupted Luke. "Ye wasn't licted Paddy first of this diligence." Then, turning to Mrs. Sterns, Luke continued: "Will ye kindly pay us our wages tomorrow? Ye're a lady. Don't ye be afraid of nothin'."

The men shuffled awkwardly out of the office. Paddy O'Shea, who went last, slammed the door violently. A moment later he put his head in to say: "Beg pardon, missis. The door went together aiser nor I expected."

The workmen went slowly out of the foundry by twos and threes. Even Dave Collins, the clown of the foundry, wore for once a serious countenance and lingered until the last moment. He went over to his corner near the core oven and said, "Goodby, old bench, till I come again." Then he reluctantly went his way. Dave had often cursed his place as being the hottest in the foundry, but now he regarded it with affection.

Mrs. Sterns looked down the street after the receding figures of the men. It was two months before they returned to their work. In all that time not a foundry fire was lighted in the great city of Riverbank.

Meanwhile the contest between the workmen and their employers increased in violence, and now hunger began to press hard on the foundrymen's families. They always lived from hand to mouth, the tobacco and drink that the men consumed costing much more than the food of the women and children. But for days past one scanty meal was all that the women could provide from their lean larders, and it seemed impossible to procure that little for any considerable time longer. The men were becoming disheartened, as their employers persisted in refusing to accede to their demands.

Big Luke and Don met on the street one afternoon while affairs were at this pass. Luke was loud mouthed against those whom he considered the oppressors of the poor. "It is tonight that we have a bonfire, Don," said Luke. "Will ye be there? That old wharf rat, Mowry, is the one that holds out and kapes us fellers from gettin back to work. He ain't starvin, and his wife's got stacks of clothes in her drawers that Dan Doyle's mother saw when she cl'aned house there—more nor she could wear out in two lifetimes—and here we bees half naked. Look at my ragged pants! See my shoes! Old Mowry wears good ones on his devil's hoof. Why don't he share his money with us workin' men? We're the producers. His foundry belongs to us. We made the money that paid for it. Manufacturers ought to divvy up the profits that the men makes. We've got to scare them into it, Don. That's what we've got to do. They grind us poor men's faces till our noses are worn flat. Ye don't think as I do, Don, but it's God's truth that I'm after tellin' to ye."

"There's some truth in what ye're sayin, Luke," admitted Don.

"Truth? I'll tell ye more yet that's true, Don. I have tramped it, and ye know it. Why did I tramp? Because no man under heaven can stand foundry smoke long, and ye know it. When ye have your big melts of zinc, I'm just about crazy after breathing the smoke.

Poor Bob McEvoy has been loony twice from the effects of zinc and is in the hospital now. If I didn't get out into the fields and breathe the fresh air, I'd be stark crazy too. Sleepin on the ground seems to take the pizen out of me. The smoke don't strike to every molder's head, but it does to mine, and I'd rather have it there than in my kidneys, as others does. And what does Mowry care for us poor devils? I've worked for him, and I knows him. The little core boys asked him once for a raise of 10 cints a day. They was gettin 75 cints. Mowry discharged them on the spot. And that same week he bought his great hound and paid $1,000 for it. A thousand dollars, man, for a dog, but no 10 cints for a boy! That $1,000 would buy me a fine little shanty, and then I would marry Bridie Hamilton, the purty little girl, and settle down and be stiddy. D'ye know what Mowry's new house cost? Ninety thousand dollars he paid, and I haven't money to buy a pigsty! He wouldn't put in a blower to save his polisher's lungs because it cost too much."

"Things ain't right," said Don, who was listening with darkened face.

"They'll lose some of their fine things the night, though," said Luke angrily. "Goodby. I have business on hand. I'm going to engage the 'Water Witch.' The firemen are friends of mine."

Luke lurched down the street toward the engine house on Dover street, and Don went past the foundry.

At 1 o'clock in the morning following this conversation a terrible alarm of fire sounded through the city of Riverbank. Springing from her bed and throwing on a heavy blanket gown, Mrs. Sterns raised her curtain and looked out. The whole street seemed wrapped in fire. Mowry's handsome house opposite was a blazing mass. From the houses on her left and right lurid tongues of flame shot upward to the sky. Supposing her house to be also on fire, she ran in her alarm to her door. There in the shadows of the broad front piazza she saw a figure crouching. Big Luke's voice whispered: "Go back, missis. We're watchin your house before and behind. The 'Water Witch' is on the way and will stand before ye house, whoever else's burns, and wet down the roof and walls. Ye've been good to us. We'll take care of ye."

Mrs. Sterns retreated. In three minutes more the "Water Witch" pulled up before her gate. Though ostensibly playing on the burning houses, she perceived that the sharpest lookout was exercised over her home, and it escaped unscathed, although all around was a wall of fire. "Never before in her experience had she been so terrified. Yet the conflagration so fascinated her that she could not turn her eyes from the terrible sights without. As she stood at one of the long French windows of her drawing room she saw a throng of laboring men rapidly passing down the street and distinguished the rude words of their low chanting:

Smoke High street louts!
Burn her out,
Burn her out!

She recognized Dick Flanagan and Paddy O'Shea in the crowd. Opposite her granite steps a dark, wild faced man glowered at the house a moment. Then, raising a petroleum torch, he was about to hurl it on the roof of her veranda. Dick Flanagan's strong arm knocked the torch into the street. "Let alone, man," he commanded. "The missis lives there. Cheer, boys, cheer! Cheer for the missis! A yell as if from the throats of a thousand Tammany tigers went upward.

"Oh, God," moaned the woman standing at the window, "protect me from the horrors of this night!" The mastiff, bolt upright and growling low, stood by her side. Her old colored servant was shaking with terror in the rear of the room. "It's the judgment day," she groaned. "De Lord has come. My ole man allus said the world would bust and burn up like stubber. Oh, come, Lord Jesus! Send the golden chariot to me!"

All that dreadful night, which seemed endless to Mrs. Sterns, Big Luke was her self constituted sentinel. Several times she heard him saying in a low, distinct tone: "Move on, boys. She's all right."

At 5 o'clock Luke tapped on the pane. Mrs. Sterns cautiously opened the door. "The cops is after us," he whispered. "I'll stay till daylight if I can. Leave yer doors unfastened, missis, so I can skip through the house out into the back yard and git off."

"Do you know the way, Luke?"

"Better nor ye do, missis," he rejoined.

Just as the shadows of night were lifting Mrs. Sterns saw three policemen closing in on the piazza. Luke was watching them. He gave a quick spring, met the one that was coming up the front steps and pushed him backward. The man fell heavily on the flagstones and lay there stunned. The others pursued Luke into the house. Running like a greyhound through the rooms, whose doors were all set wide open, he saw through the kitchen windows another policeman waiting for him at the rear door. The mastiff and Mrs. Sterns reached the kitchen by a short cut in advance of the two men. Luke stood at bay. The largest of the policemen took out a pistol. The huge animal sprang threateningly between the policeman and the fugitive. Mrs. Sterns stood terrified before the mastiff. "Don't shoot my dog, sir," she entreated. "Don't shoot him."

"Call off your dog, then, lady," said the man roughly.

That was enough. The infuriated beast heard the man speaking to his mistress in unfriendly tones. Before she could even attempt to call him off, he had jumped with a frightful growl at the man's throat. When she had succeeded in pacifying the dog, the man lay on the floor a sickening spectacle.

"The other cop ran out front," explained Luke as Mrs. Sterns looked around the room. "I must be off, missis. They will send 20 cops here to take me," and Luke leaped out of a window into the rear of the house. The wounded man writhed on the floor, while Candace crooned a weird judgment hymn whose burden was, "Gabriel sounds his mighty trumpet."

"Stop singing, Candace. It is not the judgment day."

"Laws, missis, I zo dead sure I heard him blow," replied Candace in a tone hoarse with fear.

"No, no. Go to the sideboard and bring me some brandy for this poor man," said her mistress.

While she was engaged in caring for him six stalwart policemen came in at the back door. They tenderly took away their lacerated comrade, first searching the house for Luke. "He is the toughest customer in the state, ma'am," remarked the chief of police. "He has been in more jails than I have ever seen. He's hard to handle too. I have seen him knock out three police. Was in your employ, do I understand you to say? Well, foundrymen are a hard crowd. It has been a terrible night's work. The city is wild with fear."

He jumped with a frightful growl at the man's throat.

About 8 o'clock in the evening, after the fires, Bridie Hamilton, stylishly if not tastefully dressed, was standing on a narrow platform in the rear of Riverbank's railway station. Suddenly a man emerged from under a freight car that was standing detached from the other cars.

"Oh, Luke," exclaimed Bridie. "I got word where ye were from Dick Flanagan's brother that works here. Are ye goin away again? Don't go. Stay here." Tears rolled down her face, and Luke awkwardly tried to comfort her.

"I'll come back, Bridie, darlint, sure, soon as I darst to, and don't ye be cryin. The cops will get me if I stay here. Say," he continued as her distress increased, "I'll send ye money to come to Fairlee, and we'll get married."

"Let me go with ye now, Luke," begged the girl piteously. "Father Gogarty will marry us tonight. We've been called, and my clothes are all ready."

"Mine ain't," said Luke ruefully. "I've got nothin on but me old jumper and me old pants, and it ain't safe for me to ride in a car with ye. No, darlint, ye must wait."

"Oh," moaned the girl, "I'm afraid I'll never see ye again, Luke, me lovely darlin. Do take me to Father Gogarty. I've got $50 in my pocket that I earned dressmakin. I'll go in the car, and ye can ride under it if yer afraid to sit with me. We can start at 11 tonight. Ye will have time to go and put on yer good clothes. The cops won't know ye if ye go in a hack. Do let me go with ye, Luke, there's a dear."

"I've got a nice coat and vest in the trunk in me room. If I had some dacent pants, I'd go now," said Luke, half yielding. "But, Bridget, me dear, I wanted to give ye a handsome sendoff. I wanted jest for once to ride in the parlor car by yer side. Ye have no idee how like a gentleman I look when I'm clane. I took a Turkish bath once when I went to the ball of the United Brotherhood, and I came out white. Old Mowry with his club foot never looked half so fine as meself then, and ye've got a purty face, and we would be a stylish looking couple. Yer as handsome as a picter, and yer the object of me affections, Bridget, me girl."

"Call me Bridie, Luke, dear. Bridget is so common."

"It was me ould mother's name," said Luke apologetically.

"Send that little feller there for a hack, Luke," pleaded Bridie.

Finally after more entreaties Luke yielded, and the two went in a carriage through the dark streets to Father Gogarty's house. At half past 10 they reappeared in the station. Luke kept in the dark corners, and Bridie, carrying her satchel, entered the cars. At 11 the train pulled out, with Mrs. Bridie sitting in the parlor car and Luke hanging to its under side.

Tears rolled down her face.

It was summer time again in Riverbank, and the windows and doors of Sterns' foundry were all wide open. Mrs. Sterns went in at the main entrance, nodded good morning to the men and went into the office, where sat her husband, a man royal in body and soul. Hearing the door open, he raised his head. "Ah, here comes the little mistress of this foundry," he said, smiling. "Take a seat. The money is ready for you to pay off the men. I suppose that you will never relinquish the pleasure of putting money into the men's hands. No wonder you are so popular with them."

When she came to Dick Flanagan's bench and he had counted his pay, he nodded and said, "All right, missis." Then, taking his clay pipe from his mouth, he continued, "And have ye heard the news about Luke, ma'am?"

"No, indeed. What is it?" eagerly inquired Mrs. Sterns.

"Well, Luke went down to Pennsylvania to work in a coal mine. His name was Hugh Brierly down there. Luke he thought there was going to be a strike among the miners, and he never could kape out of a strike nohow, missis. Luke was boss in the riots there last spring, and he carried on wild. He wouldn't let the trains move, and so the governor sent down the meleshy to smash the miners. Luke and a gang of men behind him met the train that was fetchin the sojers and pitched rocks down the bank and ditched the train. Then them sojers just chased after the strikers and shot a lot of them. Luke got a ball through his heart."

"Poor Luke," said Mrs. Sterns, with unaffected sorrow. "Poor, misguided Luke!"

MADE LIFE A BUNOEN.

MISS G. F. CRAWFORD, of Limestone, Me., writes: "For years I suffered monthly from periodic pains which at times were so acute as to render life a burden. I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I used seven bottles in as many months and derived so much benefit from it and the home-treatment recommended in his Treatise on Diseases of Women, that I wish every woman throughout our land, suffering in the same way, may be induced to give your medicines and treatment a fair trial." "Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing and strengthening nerve, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every "female complaint," it is the only remedy so sure that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't cure, you have your money back.

FOR SALE A Model Milling Plant.

The recent death of the owner makes the sale of this plant necessary. It consists of a flouring mill, packing-storage house and two elevators. The mill is 61x66 feet, four stories and basement constructed of stone, brick and frame, the frame part being iron-clad. Capacity 300 barrels per day. The storage-packing house is 30x120 feet two stories. The elevators each have a capacity of 30,000 and 50,000 bushels. A branch railway track runs between the mill and packing-storage house. This plant was ALL remodeled and made new in 1894. The business of this plant has paid the owner, up to his death, from $8,000 to $20,000 per year. This plant cost over $80,000 and is the finest one in the northwest. It is run by water power and situated in Janesville, Wis., except the large elevator which is at Lake Preston, S. D. There is no encumbrance and it will be sold upon easy terms or can be exchanged for first-class real estate.

Spencer Waists Revived—Costly Buttons. Sleeves For Sloping Shoulders.

The Spencer, once worn by men as well as women, is again in vogue. It has adopted, however, modern improvements in the way of large sleeves and a waistcoat. In other points it is exactly the garment our smart grandmothers wore in the not very long ago. It has, however, a shorter basque, and in a very modern instance it had a box plait over each hip, as well as one in the middle of the back. The original Spencer buttoned up to the throat, and beyond a neat collar of linen or lace it owned no ornament. The buttons were perhaps elaborate, for buttons have always been a point of luxury; witness the coin buttons once popular for men's garments, and the jeweled ones worn on court suits, when the polite world did not change its mind on the subject of dress every six weeks. The woman who possesses a set of fine antique buttons is most fortunate just now, since fine buttons are the fashion. Two or three years ago, when tailor buttons were in vogue for everything, she was no better off than anybody else.

Where the Spencer is to be employed as a dress garment it is made of rich material and has sleeves of mirror velvet, large and expansive. All sleeves are now flat at the shoulder, however, spreading as they approach the elbow. This is a little hard on the high shouldered woman, who has so long enjoyed the position of dressmakers' model, but it is only fair that the woman with more characteristically feminine shoulders should have her innings. She is now beginning to be the glass of fashion and the mold of form again, and every means is employed to display the slope of the shoulders.

The cape shown in the illustration has a black lace yoke with jeweled adornments. On this are mounted two white satin flounces, very much ruffled, lined with rose taffeta and each covered with a flounce of lace. A double ruffle of rose mousseline de soie is placed under the upper pelerine. A large bow of black satin is placed at the point of the yoke. JUDIC CHOLET.

FLOWERS AND FRILLS.

Strange Combinations—Ostrich Plume Collarettes and Elbow Sleeves.

For the coming season flowers will hold the situation, and the strange fashion of mixing sprays with alien blooms will be greatly in vogue, as the French houses are sending out such arrangements in great variety. Upright sprays of this nature are already to be seen in the latest bonnets and hats. The mimosa is twined with the radiant iris, and purple flowers are surrounded by clusters of forget-me-nots. Pink and red are fashionably combined.

None of the best dressed women has her sleeves crinolined or stiffened in any way. They are pulled flatly on the shoulders and droop elegantly, falling backward over the arms, squaring out at the bottom. The slope of the shoulder is jealously preserved. A very pretty sleeve was set on below the shoulder in a ruche which stood up round the armhole. It was very becoming and simple.

Finely plaited mousseline de soie is a feature of fashionable millinery and is very pretty and effective. It is only suitable for dress bonnets, however, as it will not endure dampness or wind. Gauze ribbons are also much used and are more serviceable if less beautiful than mousseline de soie.

Collarettes of ostrich plumes are an expensive and fragile novelty. They are wide enough to cover the shoulders and have an erect collar of tips about the neck. Less costly collarettes are of satin and lace, with which are mingled drooping sprays of small blossoms, corn flowers, lilies of the valley, violets, niggonette or tiny polyantha roses.

Elbow sleeves seem to have become an accepted fact, so the era of short gloves is destined to be brief. Street as well as house gowns are made with half length sleeves, which necessitates gloves long enough to conceal the arm.

A sketch is given of a bodice of straw liberty silk. A plastron of guipure over pale blue taffeta extends to the waist behind, while in front it is partly covered by a drape of straw silk, confined in the middle by a long paste buckle. The bouffant sleeves of straw silk extend to the elbow. Bretelles or epaulettes of blue taffeta, edged with darker blue velvet, are gathered over the shoulders and diminish toward the waist. The collar, soft belt and sleeve knots are of blue velvet.

JUDIC CHOLET.

A Gentle Reminder.

WHOLESALE SMASHUP AT PORTER.

Fast Driving Results In Several Buggies Being Wrecked—Other News.

PORTER, April 30.—Quite a serious runaway occurred last Sunday as the members of the Prairie congregation were returning from church. Charles Sweeney, while trying to pass a number of teams, frightened the one driven by M. Hayes. They broke the tongue and ran away, throwing the occupants, Mr. Hayes and son to the ground. In the meantime the runaway team dashed against and overturned a buggy occupied by J. Carey and wife. Mr. Sweeney and sister-in-law who was riding with him, were also thrown out and it seems almost a miracle that some one of the six was not killed outright, but luckily all escaped with only slight bruises, except Mr. Hayes who had two fingers nearly torn off. Two of the rigs were quite badly demolished. The runaway team reached home in safety. Miss Lizzie McCarthy and Miss Anna Downey are visiting this week with friends in Janesville. J. Murphy and wife of Footville were visitors on last Sunday. Messrs Hamilton and Hughes of Janesville were here fishing at Gibbs lake Sunday. Mrs. O. Griffith died last Saturday of a stomach trouble. She was a woman who had many friends. The Prairie choir under the leadership of Mr. Burdick, will meet for practice in the church Sunday from 2:30 until 4 p. m. Miss Abbie McCarthy is again teaching in the Lieman district and Miss Sarah Ford near Footville.

News From Emerald Grove.

EMERALD GROVE, April 30.—The Y. P. S. C. E. convention was attended by a large delegation from this society. The Chatauqua Circle meets with Miss Nettie Boynton on Friday evening of this week. Seeding has been completed and farmers are now making preparations for corn planting. D. M. Barlass returned from South Dakota last week. Do not forget Gillies & Jones when you want anything in the paint line. Mrs. Joseph Earl, of Chicago, visited her sister, Mrs. D. M. Barlass, last week. Rev. Blaisdale, of Waukesha, and Rev. Hammond exchanged pulpits last Sabbath. J. T. Boynton raised his new barn last Friday. It has been reported that E. H. Ransom has sold thirty-two miles of Keystone woven wire fencing this spring, which would indicate he has a good fence.

An Accommodation Train.

In a certain state in the south there is a railroad which is leased for one cent a year and which has only one train, which makes up in accommodation what it lacks in regularity. It stops anywhere and everywhere. At a certain crossing it always stopped to take a dozen eggs which a widow sent to town every day. One morning the widow came out and said:

"I'm mighty sorry, Mr. Conductor, but I've got only eleven this morning."

"Never mind, madam," he replied cheerfully; "we'll wait."—Judge.

After the Battle.

Second Trooper—That's easy enough to account for.

First Trooper—How's that?

Second Trooper—He used to be a plumber before he joined the cavalry. —Harper's Bazar.

Same, But Different.

How strange it is that if you say "That man's a level-headed chap," He likes it, though for compliments He says he does not care a rap. But change the words a little, and "A flat head" call your dearest friend, How wild he gets, and yet those terms Both mean the same thing in the end. —N. Y. Herald.
